IPPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. BRIGHTON BRACH RACE TRACK, Aug. 24.— There were many expressions of disappointent at Brighton Beach to-day when it was learned that great Futurity candidate Morello would not go to the post in the two-year-old race. A large number of people took the journey especially to see this great son of Eclus have his last race before the big event on Saturday, but Frank Van Ness was airsid to risk his precious charge in such a large field, where serious accidents might occur.
The colt was galloped and looked as grand and fit for a race as could be. He will cer-tainly give a good account of himself Satur-

Bolivar was never caught and won easily by three lengths. Bob Arthur got the place, a neck before Menthol. Sandowne, Prince George and Stowaway ruied about equal favories in the two-year-old race. The race was between these three, but as the Woodland Stable would not declare the public tool: the Daly end of it. They were right, for after Sandowne had made the running into the stretch Prince George drew away and won easily. Sandowne was two lengths before his stable companion, Stowaway.

Backers of Favorites Return Home with Depleted Purses.

Backers of public form were again in a very bad way when leaving Monmouth Park after the races yesterday. Lead pipes, air-tight cinches and all were in a topsy-turvy pile, and only one favorite saved the talent from utter ruination. Many were the "hard luck" stories that were told on the homeward journey, and at the end the same old con that " It's a hard game to beat at best," was Street & Smith's Cashier Locked Up got to the city, the entries for to-day were just as eagerly scanned, and just as many "good things" were to be had before many hours had passed. Perhaps the biggest surprise of the day was the downfall of Spartan in the Special,
Sweepstakes and the victory of Minnehabs, the fang outsider. At best the four young-sters that came to the post to do battle for this event have proved themselves to be about the doggiest of two-year-olds yet shown, but was said to be traced to Alfred J. Price, the

If Mr. Morris ever felt sinky about having his statements questioned before, what must have been his feelings yea-terday? When the arrangements for this race were made Mr. Morris was not present, but when asked to join he replied, "With pleasure and will win it." Whether Mr. Morris felt so very confident of victory yesterday is a question, but if he did he was about the only one had the nerve to think so. Experiment, true to her past form, was done at the three-eighths pole, and from there out spartan and Minnehaha nad the race between them, and although Taral whipped, spurred and dug Spartan out, the "All Scarlet" representative held him safe and won handily. . . .

The other stake event, the Monmouth Handicap, also fell to Mr. Morris's stable. There were only three starters, Ranquet, 124; Lamplighter, 115, and Reckon, 100. The plungers divided their attention between the first two, but a few of the surewd trainers put their coin on the filly. Plerre Lorillard thought he had a chance to win his colt pretty nearly out and simply flooded the ring with Lamplighter money. "Mike" Dwyer also sent a swell commission in on Banquet. The hearly out and simply hooded the ring with Lamplighter money. "Mike" Dwyer also sent a swell commission in on Banquét, The race was never in doubt, Heckon going off like a streak as soon as the flag fell and opened up a gap of half a dozen lengths. Banquet chased after the leader for a mile, but then the game-little gelding was forced to give up and Lamp-lighter took a chance. Beckon was too much for him, too, and simply cantered home.
